

CITY FUTURES CONFERENCE

COLLABORATION BETWEEN SCIENCE AND SOCIETY FOR SUSTAINABLE SOLUTIONS

Sustainable city futures need experimentation and innovation developed through collaboration between academia and social actors. On Thursday 11 October 2018, the IIIEE is organizing a City Futures Conference in Lund, Sweden. The aim is to bring together academia, municipalities and regional actors within business and industry to discuss how to strengthen the collaboration between science and policy for sustainable solutions.

KEYNOTE SPEAKERS

Prof. Harriet Bulkeley, Durham University and Utrecht University

Mr. Jonas Kamleh, Environmental and Climate Strategist, City of Malmö

Dr. Cathy Oke, Knowledge Broker at Melbourne University and First Vice President for ICLEI - Local Governments for Sustainability

Mr. Seth Schultz, Special Advisor to Global Covenant of Mayors on Science & Innovation

MODERATOR

Dr. Kes McCormick, Associate Professor, International Institute for Industrial Environmental Economics

VENUE

10 - 11 October at the International Institute for Industrial Environmental Economics, Tegnérsplatsen 4 in Lund.

PROGRAMME

WEDNESDAY 10 OCTOBER

19:00 - 21:00 Welcome reception at the IIIEE - drinks and discussion

THURSDAY 11 OCTOBER

09:00-09:30 Welcome to the conference

09:30-10:30 Jonas Kamleh

How to support innovations through urban experimentation.

10:30-11:00 Coffee break

11:00-12:00 Jonas Kamleh, Cathy Oke and Harriet Bulkeley

Discussion with the audience on innovation through urban experimentation.

12:00-13:00 Lunch

13:00-14:00 Harriet Bulkeley

Collaboration, best practices and future outlook.

14:00-14:30 Coffee break

14:30-15:30 Cathy Oke

Collaboration, best practices and future outlook.

15:30-16:00 Seth Schultz (online from New York)

Innovate4Cities

The conference is organised by the IIIEE together with the Urban Arena at Lund University.